This vehicle came to us in 2022 as a part exchange for one of our wheelchair accessible models. Since then, it's been owned and carefully maintained by myself and my wife as one of our personal family vehicles. It's been a fantastic car-reliable, easy to drive, and ideal for city use. As our first electric vehicle, it's provided a great introduction to EV ownership. While the range is more modest compared to the latest models, it's perfectly suited for urban driving, school runs, and short commutes. If you're looking for an affordable, dependable entry into electric driving, this is a great option.
